FOREWORD

My father, Stephen Barlow Espy, left Pennsylvania for Fort Madison, Iowa, then the far west, in 1846. At the time of his death I was a small child, and never knew any of the Espys, except the family of my uncle, Thos. S. Espy, and they too, grew up far from the parent stock. Naturally I was both ignorant of, and curious about my ancestry.

Goethe says, "Happy he who remembers his progenitors with pride of their deeds, and, silently rejoicing, sees himself linked to the end of this goodly chain." Feeling a good deal this way myself and having faith that "pride in their deeds" would be my portion, I began the linking together of the "goodly chain" in 1896. It has been a long and tedious task that might have been better done by some one else but there was no one else ready to do it.

When my dear kinsmen read this book I hope that each and every one will remember that into this work I have put almost ten years of my life, and my time is, I assure you, valuable in the marts of trade, and also much money, which could have been spent in the more agreeable manner called "buying finery," that is so dear to the heart of every woman.

It will seem to many that it is a poor book for the money, but there is no record herein that has cost me as little as the price of the book, besides I have sold only enough copies to pay the immediate cost of printing. This is told you frankly that you may understand why there is only a paper binding and also that you may realize that each book has cost me very much more than it has cost you.

It will seem to some a very small book. It is, but do not blame me for that. You will notice that one great reason is that more than half of the children born into this family died unmarried and of those now living, many have failed to give an extended account of their relationship. In the early days we often find one or more children in a family of whom no trace is left in public records or family tradition.

The book is issued now, because my eyesight, never good, is rapidly failing and it seems to me that an incomplete genealogy, if a genealogy ever can be completed, is better than none.

In this work I am greatly indebted to Mr. A. T. Espie, Glasgow, Scotland, Mr. George Espy, Dungannon, Ireland, Hon. George Espie, Carlisle, Cumberland Co., England, Mr. Wm. Franklin Rutherford, Harrisburg, Pa., Maj. John Espy, St. Paul, Minn., Miss Thirza L. Westcott, El Paso, Texas, Miss F. M. Espy, Fouce, Ga., and to none more than to Mr. Josiah Morrow, Lebanon, O., who has written for me the sketch of Prof. James Espy, with whom he was personally acquainted.

In 1876, Dr. Wm. H. Egle, then State Librarian of Pennsylvania, published his "Genealogies of Pennsylvania" in which were "The Espys of Derry." After one years work I found that his record was not correct and the letter here printed will show that Dr. Egle had also discovered this.

September, 30, 1897.

Miss Florence M. Espy,
Ft. Madison, Iowa.

My dear Madame:—

I am in receipt of yours of the 27th inst. For sometime I have been disposed to believe that the record as given in the genealogy, of the ancestry of Prof. James Espy, was somewhat mixed, but, no one has been able to help me out of the tangle. I am however in search of data, which no doubt will settle it, and as soon as I obtain the desired information I will inform you.

Yours with respect,

WILLIAM H. EGLE.

If he had lived, this extended and corrected record would doubtless have been issued by him in another volume of Pennsylvania genealogy.

These facts are gathered from records now carefully kept in Lancaster, Northumberland, Cumberland, Bedford and Westmorland Counties, Pa. All of these counties have been greatly sub-divided since the early settlement of our forefathers. Also, from the few remaining records of North Carolina, and Counties Londonderry, Down, Antrim and Tyrone in the Province of Ulster, Ireland. A surprising number of Family Bibles, old letters and papers, are still in the hands of different branches of the family. And most valuable of all are the old church records of Pennsylvania that gives dates of deaths, baptisms, and marriages. By examining the map locating the early Scotch-Irish settlements you will see that these churches are about ten or twelve miles apart.

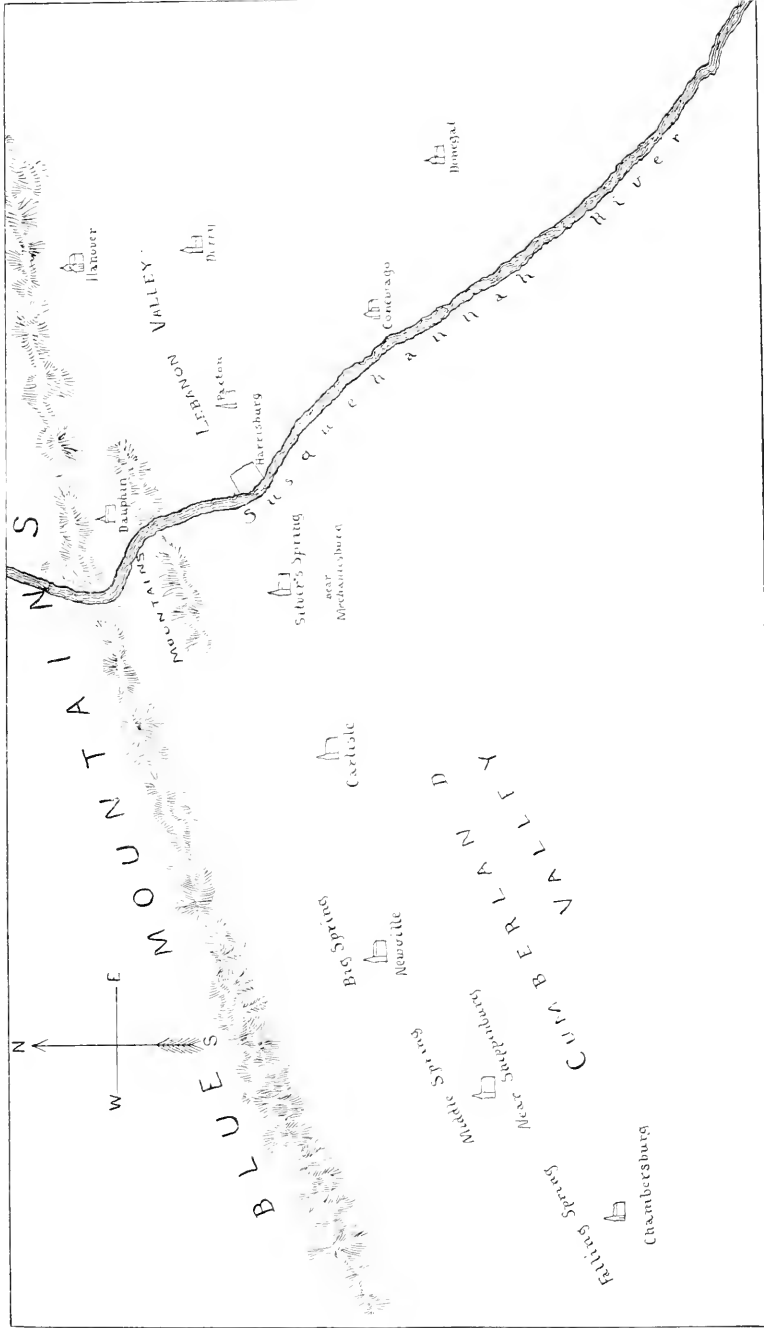

There will be no attempt made to tell the number of books of reference read in gathering this information as recording the names became an irksome task almost at the outset. In this search two trips were made to Pennsylvania and the early grave-stones examined and many old people visited that have since passed away.

FLORENCE MERCY ESPY,

Fort Madison, Iowa. July 19, 1905.

EARLY SCOTCH-IRISH SETTLEMENTS OF LANCASTER COUNTY PENNSYLVANIA.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME AND FAMILY OF ESPY

There is much doubt as to the origin and meaning of the name Espy. Prof. Max Mueller, in his "Science of Language" says that in transferring into English, words ending in "ie" should be changed to "y." On page 260, Vol. 1, of this same work he says: "In Old German the word for spy was Speha, Old French gives the same word as Espie." From this we can imagine if we like that the name means spy or scout.

Mr. A. T. Espie of Glasgow, Scotland, has sent me a learned discursion proving that the name Espie means "Bishop" and that the name Gillespie means "The Bishops servant" and Rev. John Boyd Espy, Fredonia, N. Y., proves this to his own satisfaction by quoting Greek and Latin.

Harry Alfred Long in 1883, published "Personal and Family Names" in which we find, "Spada: Swordsman giving Espie or Espee, con. Spade (at cards) originally a sword." From this it is equally easy to see that the name means swordsman. Any of the above ideas are worthy and you have the authorities and can take your choice.

In the early records family names were not looked upon as important and as most people spelled by sound all you have to do is to call in the first Scotch-Irish man you see and ask him to pronounce Espy and you will then be able to see why the early records have Aspy, Aspai, Aspie and Asby. We also find recorded the name Espie, Espey, Esby, Esbie and Easpy.

In the "Norman People," page 411, we find Radulphus Espee, Normandy, 1180—1195 and John de Espy, England, 1272.

In "Etat Present De La Noblesse Francaise" published 1866, is found:

Espee (baron de 1) commander de la Legion d Honneur, 115 rue de Lille, Paris.

Espee (baron de 1) 10 rue Las Casas, Paris.

Espee (baron du 1) au Chatau de Sandronvillers, pur
Saint Nicolas du Port.

Espee (Henry de 1) au Chateau de Forville.

Espies (Comte d) 58 rue de Verneen, Paris.

Espies (Comte d) 10 rue Neuve de l Universite, Paris.

Espies (vicompte d) 86 rue du Bac, Paris.

A memorial tablet in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, Ireland, reads thus: "Rene de la Don Espe de la Tablere, who in 1685, for the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, left his country, La Bas Poicton, France, and took refuge in Ireland." This proves that some Espys were Huguenots.

In "County Records of the Surnames of Francus, Franceis, French, in England A. D. 1100 to 1350" we find "Release of John, brother of William de Esseby * * * * which said brother held."

In "Collectanaae, Topographica and Genealogica" Vol. 2, under date of July 10, 1313, extract from the Annals of Crokesden Abbey, County Stafford, England, are found many references to Thomas de Esseby.

In "The Visitation of Kent" Harlem Mss. page 78, is found "Alano Espe married Maria Claybrooke."

There was a Count Cozart living in France in 1598 that married the heiress of George Comte d' Espies and afterwards used the Espy and Cozad arms together. This information comes to me from the family of my mother, whose grand-mother was a Cozad.

At the present day in the Counties of Cumberland, Northumberland, Devonshire and Kent, England, are families named Espy.

From the earliest times there has been in Germany a family spelling the name "Espich" or "Espichorum." Some of this family settled in Bucks County, Pa., before the Revolutionary War, and their descendants are scattered over the United States. They spell the name Espy and Espe. This family think they are entitled to a large fortune in Germany and have several times tried to collect it.

There is a family in New Orleans, spelling the name Espy that came from the South of France about twenty-five years ago.

There are others, spelling the name Espy, living in Louisiana, whose ancestors came directly from Ireland soon after the Revolution.

In New York City, Carrol County, Ill., and in and about Mosherville, Mich., are settled families spelling the name Espie who came directly from Scotland about thirty years ago. There are also Espys in Canada that emigrated from Ireland since 1850.

There is a large family, spelling the name Espey, scattered over the United States, but the larger number of them are in Eastern New York. They are the descendants of John, William, Daniel, Henry, James and Thomas, who came from County Tyrone, Ireland, within the past fifty years.

To speak candidly of one's direct ancestors, however remote, is a somewhat difficult matter. Unstinted praise savors of egotism, and to uncover failings is an unfilial and ungracious task. Fortunately in the present case only good has lived after them as time has completely obliterated whatever of evil was theirs.

While we do not claim for them the distinction of having been leaders of men, we do claim that they understood and appreciated the spirit of the age in which they lived; were diligent in business, and as men and women, stood shoulder to shoulder in the ranks of that unconquerable phalanx which from age to age, has battled for the rights of man, and to which, under God, we of to-day owe whatever of freedom and personal liberty we possess.

Our immediate ancestors are Scotch that came to the Scottish Plantation of Down-Antrim at the time when religious persecution was greatest in Scotland. They were signers of the "Solemn League and Covenant," and many of the name fought under the banner of the blue and gold at Drumclog, Loudon, Pentland Hills and Boyne Water for religious liberty.

There is good cause for thinking that this family of Espy runs into the great and noble Tuscan house of d'Este but it was impossible for me to give the needed time, labor and expense necessary in order to establish the truth in this case, besides my personal feeling in the matter is that the good, plain, honest, Scotch Yeoman as we know him in "The Bonnie Briar Bush," casts a greater glory over his descendants than can the family of d'Este.

The Descendants of Josiah and Priscilla Mitchell Espy, of County Antrim, Ireland.

We know little of this worthy couple except the fact that they lived, married, begat sons and daughters and passed on. One thing we do know is that they handed down to their children and children's children, honesty and industry, together with the firm conviction that the Presbyterian form was the only way in which a Christian could worship. This Josiah was the son of Hugh and grandson of George Espy who came to the "Plantations" in Ireland from Scotland, as early as 1610. Their descendants are scattered over the north of Ireland and some of them live there to this day, while many of them have emigrated to America and Australia. We find record of two families that in later and more peaceful times returned to Scotland and settled in and about Glasgow, where their descendants still live. Josiah and Priscilla Mitchell Espy were married in Ireland, it is supposed, but no record can be found, neither can any proof be found that they crossed the ocean, nor can we find any record of the death of either. From different families we have traced back the facts here recorded. Their children were:

- ee page 22. ii. George, b. 1695; m. Jean Taylor.
- iii. Martha*, b. 1697; m. Humphrey Fullerton.
Came to America and settled in Pennsylvania from whence their descendants are scattered over the United States. One family has lived in Chillicothe, O., since 1802 and Josiah Espy speaks of them in his "Tour."

This John had three sons; George, remained in Ireland and some of his descendants are living in Cookstown, while others are scattered over the world, John, the second son, was the progenitor of the family that returned to Scotland and also of the principal "Espie" family in Australia. Hugh, the third son, m. Mary Stewart in County Londonderry and came to America.

History and Genealogy of Samuel and Martha Hay Espy

I. SAMUEL ESPY, eldest son of Josiah and Priscilla Mitchell Espy, was born in North of Ireland in the year 1693; m. Martha Hay by whom he had five sons all of whom settled in America. If he had daughters we find no record of them. Samuel "followed the sea" and some years after the death of his first wife he married secondly, Ann, daughter of John Montgomery of County Antrim, Ireland, and widow of Col. James Hamilton of the English Army. This marriage is recorded in the Parish of St. George, London, June 6, 1745. From this time on Samuel seems to have been a man of wealth and position. There is no record of children by this marriage. There is now, in the possession of Mr. John Anderson of Bedford, Pa., a legal document reading thus: "Samuel Espy, Parish of St. George, No. 4, Hanover Square, London, England, gave power of attorney to his son James to collect prize money due him from the navy, May 17, 1746." It is supposed that this paper with other matters appertaining to the estate of James Espy came into the hands of Col. David Espy when James d. in 1747, but nothing is certainly known. Samuel Espy and Martha Hay had issue:

She was m. to James Mitchell, son of David and Margaret Mitchell of Derry Township, Lancaster County, Pa., in 1794; while her parents were yet in Kentucky, but the young couple soon removed to Green County, Ohio, where they lived and died. XV. DAVID ESPY, ninth child of Josiah and Elizabeth Patterson Espy, was b. 1779. He settled near his brother Thomas, in Warren County, Ohio, before he was of age. He purchased from his brother 100 acres of land for $350.00 on which he built a home. The post-village of Twenty Mile Stand (20 miles from Cincinnati) is on this land. He subsequently purchased other and larger tracts. He is remembered as a neat and dressy old man, the last survivor of the pioneers of the region in which he lived. He married Dorcas Keene. Though not a man of wealth he retired in old age from the active labor of his farm and lived at ease. He had received the doctrine of Swedenborg from his brother Josiah; and at his large and comfortable house the ministers of the "new church" were made welcome, and there they sometimes preached "the heavenly doctrine of the New Jerusalem." His brother, Prof. James Espy, was a frequent visitor and he sometimes, sitting on a chair in David's parlor would give conversational lectures to the neighbors and friends on rain-storms and tornadoes. David Espy d. in 1863. He had issue:

XVI. JAMES ESPY, youngest child of Josiah and Elizabeth Patterson Espy, who after his marriage wrote his name James Pollard Espy, was b. in Westmorland County, Pa., May 9, 1785. He was the most distinguished man of the Espy name. His youth was passed in Kentucky and Ohio, and having an ardent desire for knowledge he commenced teaching school as a means for obtaining a classical education at Transylvania University, Lexington, Ky. His brother Josiah, when at Lexington in 1805, wrote: "Here I met my youngest brother, James, whom I had not seen since he was an infant. I found him at the University where he has made considerable progress in the dead languages and in general science. He discovers an ardent desire after knowlegde and promises to be intelligent and useful." Leaving the University in 1808, he taught an academy at Cumberland, Md. He studied law and practiced that profession four years at Xenia, Ohio. In 1812 he married Miss Margaret Pollard of Cumberland, Md. In 1817 he became a teacher of classics in Philadelphia; that city was his home for twenty years. Prof. Bache says that Espy became known as one of the best Classical and Mathematical instructors in Philadelphia. He soon, however, had his attention drawn to natural science and about 1828 he began his studies and investigations in the cause of storms, which made him the foremost American Meteorologist. In 1833 he wrote a summary of his theory of the upward movement of the air in storms and of their self-sustaining power from the evolution of latent heat. In 1834 he became Meteorologist of both the Franklin Institute and the American Philosophical society of Philadelphia. In 1836 he abandoned the profession of teaching and began lecturing before scientific bodies and popular audiences. These lectures caused him to be popularly known as the "Storm King." In 1840 he visited Europe and presented his theory of storms before the British Association and the French Academy of Science. It was during the discussion that followed the presentation of his theory before the French Academy that Arago said: "France has its Cuvier, England its Newton, America its Espy." In 1841 his "The Philosophy of Storms" was published at Boston. In 1843 he was appointed the first Meteorologist of the U. S. Government and was assigned to duty, first, under the Surgeon-General of the Army, next under the Secretary of the Navy, and finally in 1848 under the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. His four voluminous reports were published by the government. His most important scientific publication was his Fourth Report, published in 1857. His work in Washington was terminated in 1859 and he then spent sometime in visiting his relatives and friends in Ohio and Pennsylvania. While on a visit to Cincinnati, Prof. Espy was stricken with paralysis January 17, 1860, and died at the residence of his nephew, John Westcott, Jan. 24th. He was buried in the cemetery at Harrisburg by the side of his wife who had died ten years before. Soon after his death Moncure D. Conway published at Cincinnati "The Human Will, a series of Posthumous Essays by the late James Pollard Espy" with a brief memoir of the author. Mr. Conway who had known Prof. Espy intimately in Washington, says: "The character of Prof. Espy was as pure and elevated as any it has been our happiness to meet. His word, with those who met him, was truth itself; his innocence like that of a child." Prof. Espy was not a member of any church, but in Philadelphia he had a pew in the Unitarian church. He died childless, and in his will he bequeathed all his property (about $20,000) to his relatives. His will is remarkable in that while his relatives both male and female, were numerous, he left no money to any male person. The name of James P. Espy, American Meteorologist, is the only Espy found worthy of a place in dictionaries of universal biography. Prof. Espy had his portrait painted by Peale; after his death it was presented to the Smithsonian Institution and now hangs up stairs in one of the offices. Miss Westcott and Mrs. Alexander also have paintings, made later.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE BOARD OF REGENTS OF
THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION ON THE DEATH OF PROF. JAMES P. ESPY.

Saturday, Feb. 4, 1860.

A meeting of the Board of Regents was held this day, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Present: Hon. John C. Breckinridge, Hon. James A. Pearce, Hon. S. A. Douglass, Professor C. C. Felton, Professor A. D. Bache, Hon. J. G. Berret and the Secretary.

Mr. Breckenridge was called to the chair. The minutes were read and approved. The Secretary announced the death of the following persons who had been officially connected and otherwise with the operations of the Institution: Washington Irving, an honorary member, Prof. W. W. Turner, Prof. James P. Espy and G. Wurdemann, Esqs.

Prof. Felton then addressed the Board as follows: Mr. Chancellor: The year 1859 will be memorable in the history of civilization for the number of illustrious men who have passed away from the scene of their earthly labor in its course. The year 1769 was remarkable for the number of men born in it, who have changed the whole aspect of science and letters and the political condition of the world. Of the great men born in that year, one Humbolt, the most eminent of all, lived to the year 1859, thus spanning over the interval between them by a life of ninety years consecrated to the highest objects of human pursuits.

The Smithsonian Institution has to lament an unusual number of those connected with it among the distinguished dead of the past year. (The venerable Mr. Rush has already been fitly commemorated by a member of the Board.) I take the liberty of offering a few remarks upon two others whose death the country deplores. (Prof. Turner and Washington Irving are the men to whom he refers, and sets forth beautifully their separate talents, characters, etc.)

Prof. Bache then made the following remarks:

James P. Espy, one of the most original and successful meteorologists of the present time, died in Cincinnati, Ohio, on the 24th. of January, 1860, in the seventy-fifth year of his age, after an illness of a week, at the residence of his nephew-in-law, John Westcott.

The early career of Mr. Espy as an instructor, was marked by the qualities which led to his later distinction in science. He was of the best classical and mathematical instructors in Philadelphia, which at that day numbered Dr. Wylie, Mr. Sanderson and Mr. Crawford among its teachers.

Impressed by the researches and writings of Dalton and of Daniell on meteorology, Mr. Espy began to observe the phenomena and then to experiment on the facts which formed the ground-work of the science. As he observed, experimented and studied, his enthusiasm grew, and his desire to devote himself exclusively to the increase and diffusion of the science, finally became so strong that he determined to give up his school and to rely for the means of prosecuting his researches upon his slender savings, and the success of his lectures, probably the most original which have ever been delivered on the subject. His first course was delivered before the Franklin Institute of Pennsylvania, of which he had long been an active member, and where he met kindred spirits, ready to discuss the principles or the applications of science and prepared to extend their views over the whole horizon of physical and mechanical research. As chairman of the committee on meteorology, Mr. Espy had a large share in the organization of the complete system of meteorological observations carried on by the institute under the auspices and within the limits of the State of Pennsylvania.

“Mr. Espy’s theory of storms was developed in successive memoirs in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, containing discussions of the changes of temperature, and moisture of the air, and in the direction and force of the wind and other phenomena attending remarkable storms in the United States and on the ocean adjacent to the Atlantic and Gulf Coast. Assuming great simplicity as it was developed and founded on the established laws of physics and upon ingenious and well-directed original experiments, this theory drew general attention to itself especially in the United States. A memoir submitted anonymously to the American Philosophical society of Philadelphia, gained for Mr. Espy the Magellanic premium in the year 1836 after a discussion remarkable for ingenuity and closeness in its progress, and for the almost unanimity of its result.

Mr. Espy was eminently social in his mental habits full of bonhomie and of enthusiasm, easily kindling a glow of social mental action. In the meetings and free discussions in a club formed for promoting research, and especially for scrutinizing the labors of its members—and of which Sears L. Walker, Prof. Henry, Henry D. Rogers and myself were members—Mr. Espy found the mental stimulus he needed, and the criticism he courted, the best aids and checks on his observation, speculation, and experiments. But there was one person who had more influence upon him than all others besides, stimulating him to progress and urging him forward in each step with a zeal which never flagged—this was his wife. Having no children to occupy her care, and being of high mental endowment and of enthusiastic temperament, she found a never-failing source of interest and gratification in watching the development of Mr. Espy's scientific ideas, the progress of his experiments, and the results of his reading and studies; the collection and collation of observations of natural phenomena in the poetical region of the storm, the tornadó and of the aurora. Mrs. Espy's mind was essentially literary, and she could not aid her husband in his scientific inquiries or experiments; her health was delicate and she could not assist him in his out-door observations; but she supplied what was of more importance than these aids—a genial and loving interest ever manifested in his pursuits and successes and in his very failures. Alere flammam was the office of her delicate and poetical temperament. Younger than Mr. Espy, she nevertheless died some years before him in 1850, leaving him to struggle alone in the decline of life without the sustaining power of her devoted and enthusiastic nature.

Having in a great degree matured his theory of storms, having made numerous inductions from observations and having written a great deal in regard to it, Mr. Espy took the bold resolution, though past middle age, to throw himself into a new career, laying aside all ordinary employments and devoting himself to the diffusion of the knowledge which he had collected and increased, by lecturing in the towns, villages and cities of the United States. This proved a successful undertaking and by its originality attracted more attention to his views than could have been obtained, probably, in any other way. He soon showed remarkable power in explaining his ideas.

His simplicity and clearness enabled his hearers to follow him without too great effort, and the earnestness with which he spoke out his convictions carried them away in favor of his theory. The same power which enabled him to succeed in his lecturing career procured subsequently for Mr. Espy the support and encouragement of some of the leading men in Congress, and especially in the Senate, and also in the executive department, their attention was arrested by the originality of his views and his warmth in presenting them and he imparted so much of his conviction of their truth as to induce many of our statesmen and official persons to exert themselves to procure for him, under the patronage of the government, continued opportunities for study, research and the comparison of observations. To the consistent support of his scientific friends, and particularly of the Secretary of this Institution, Mr. Espy owed also much in obtaining the opportunities of keeping in a scientific career. His reports to the Surgeon General of the Army, to Congress, and to the Secretary of the Navy, are among his latest efforts in this direction.

The earnest and deep convictions of the truth of his theory in all its parts, and his glowing enthusiasm in regard to it, perhaps, also, the age which he had reached, prevented Mr. Espy from passing beyond a certain point in the development of his theory. The same constitution of mind rendered his inductions from observation often unsafe. His views were positive and his conclusions absolute, and so was the expression of them. He was not prone to examine and re-examine premises and conclusions, but considered what had once been passed upon by his judgment as finally settled. Hence his views did not make that impression upon cooler temperament, among men of science to which they were entitled—obtaining more credit among scholars and men of general reading in our country, than among scientific men and making but little progress abroad.

Feeling that his bodily vigor was failing and that his life must soon close, the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution induced him to re-examine the various parts of his meteorological theories of storms, tornadoes and water spouts, and to insert in his last report, while it was going through the press, an account of his most mature views. I trust that the Secretary will in one of his reports, give us a thorough and critical examination of the works and services of this remarkable contributor to a branch of science, the knowledge of which the Smithsonian Institution has already done so much to advance and to diffuse. On motion of Prof. Bache, the following resolutions were adopted:

RESOLVED, That the Regents of the Smithsonian Institute have learned with deep regret the decease of James P. Espy, one of the most useful and zealous of the meteorologists co-operating with the Institution, and whose labors in both increase and diffusion of knowledge of meteorology have merited the highest honors at home and have added to the reputation of our country abroad.

RESOLVED, That the Regents offer to the relatives of Mr. Espy, their sincere condolence in the loss of which they have sustained.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, it was resolved that remarks of Prof. Bache be entered in the proceedings,

COPY OF THE WILL OF PROF. JAMES P. ESPY.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 24, 1857.

In the beginning of this my last will and testament, I wish to express my most profound reverence for the Supreme Ruler of the Universe, and my unwavering belief that everything which I have experienced during my whole life, (as well the pains as the pleasures) has been so arranged by His infinite goodness and wisdom as to result in good to me; by educating me to a higher state of knowledge, and to a more intense love of goodness, and so to prepare me for an eternity of happiness after death.

If it is better for me to exist happy after death, I shall so exist, as certain as there is a God, of infinite Goodness, Wisdom and Power; and if it is better for me to suffer some pain hereafter, for the sake of further improvement, I doubt not that an infinitely good and wise Father has arranged it that I shall suffer.

Heavenly Father, with unwaivering confidence in Thy love, I commit myself, and the whole human family, Thy children, to Thy holy keeping.

It is my last will, that at my death, my sister-in-law, Mary H. Espy of Harrisburg, shall have in her own right, the Four Thousand Dollars for which I now hold her bond and mortgage, and I therefore desire that this bond mortgage shall be cancelled at my death.

I wish that Prof. A. D. Bache of the Coast Survey, shall have my microscope; Prof. Joseph Henry of the Smithsonian Institute, my telescope; and the Hon. Chas. Brown of Philadelphia, my watch.

I leave to my sister-in-law, Maria M. Espy, of Columbus, Ohio, One Thousand Dollars; to her daughter Lavinia, One Thousand; to her daughter Isabella, One Thousand; and to her daughter Ellen, One Thousand.

I leave to Lavinia M. P. Williams, niece of my wife Margaret Espy, Two Thousand Dollars; to Eliza Powel, my niece, One Thousand Dollars; to my niece, Eunice Espy, daughter of my brother David Espy, Five Hundred.

I leave to Eliza E. Sergeant, daughter of Mary H. Espy aforesaid, One Thousand Dollars; to my sister-in-law, Priscilla Douglas, One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars; to my grand niece, Thirza L. Westcott, Two Thousand Dollars; to my grand niece, Minerva Westcott, Two Thousand Dollars; and to my grand niece, Phoebe Westcott, One Thousand Dollars.

If there is anything left over after these legacies are paid, I wish it to be equally divided between my two grand nieces, Thirza L. Westcott and Minerva Westcott aforesaid, as my residuary legatees; but if my estate should not be sufficient to pay all these legacies in full, then I wish, after paying Mary H. Espy's legacy in full, that cancelling the bond and mortgage aforesaid, that the rest of the legatees be paid pro rata.

And I hereby constitute Mary H. Espy, and Thirza L. Westcott aforesaid, my Executrices to carry into execution this my last will and testament; in witness whereof I have hereto set my hand and seal, this 24th day of August, 1857.

In addition to his farm he carried on a blacksmith shop and was highly respected and esteemed; he grew to be the wealthiest man of the locality. He came to Burnette County, Texas, in 1856, and lived there until his death. During the last forty years of his life he was engaged in agriculture and stock raising. The tides of fortune "came and went" with him. From '61 to '71, the Indians deprecated in Texas, he having many fierce combats, and narrow escapes from a cruel death at their hands; also suffered severe losses of cattle and horses stolen by Indians. XVI. JAMES ESPY, son of John and Lovina Inman Espy, was b. in Nanticoke, Luzerne County, Pa., in 1811; d. 1872, at Rummerfield Creek, Bradford County, Pa., whither he removed in 1863. He m. in 1841, Mary A. Miller, b. Dec. 26, 1818; d. Feb. 15, 1878, in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., daughter of Barnett Miller and Mary DeWitt. They had issue:

- i. Major John Espy, one of the foremost citizens of St. Paul, Minn., first saw the light of day in the historic Wyoming Valley at Nanticoke, Luzerne County, Pa., Sept. 21, 1842. George, a son of Josiah was b. in 1749, and was a soldier in the war of Independence. He m. Mary Stewart, a sister of Capt. Lazarus Stewart, who fell at the massacre of Wyoming—a region which for many years was the scene of sanguinary conflicts between contending patriots and the Tories, British and Indians, and famed, later, for the long series of internecine contests known as the "Pennymite Wars." Capt. Stewart was leader of the celebrated Paxton boys of Pennsylvania, who left Hanover Township, Lancaster county, and settled in Hanover township, Luzerne county—a township named by him. During the struggles in the Wyoming Valley, which lasted nearly eight years, the Capt. rendered patriotic and distinguished services. In 1809, John, son of George Espy, married Lovina Inman, a daughter of Col. Edward Inman of the Revolutionary Army. In 1841, James, eldest son of John and Lovina Espy, m. Mary A. Miller, a daughter of Barnett Miller. And then through a long line of patriotic and distinguished ancestry, we bring this genealogical table down to John Espy, the subject of this sketch and a son of James and Mary A. Espy. In 1868, he m. Martha M. Wood, a daughter of John B. Wood of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Her father was a prosperous merchant and banker, and her mother, whose maiden name was Sarah Gore, was descended from one of the oldest and most honorable families of America. Her great-grandfather and five of his sons fought against the British and Indians in the Wyoming Valley campaigns.

Major Espy has an interesting history. Much of his childhood was spent under the care of his paternal grandmother, Lovina Inman Espy, a woman of broad culture and great intelligence. In 1860, when only seventeen years of age, he entered upon a career of independence. Equipped with a good common school education, habits of industry, and ambition to succeed, he came westward and located at Burlington, Iowa. The war of the Rebellion set the country ablaze the following spring and John Espy was among the first to enlist in Co. E of the First Regt. of Iowa Vol. Inft. in response to President Lincoln's first call. This regiment fought under General Nathaniel Lyon in those campaigns which did so much to save the state of Missouri to the Union.

Young Espy accompanied it in the expedition under Genl. Sweeny to Forsyth, near the Arkansas line; was in the engagement at Dug Springs, and took part in the memorable battle of Wilson's Creek, Aug. 10, 1861, in which action the lamented Lyon fell and the First Iowa lost 51 men in killed and wounded. A few days after this battle the First Iowa's term of enlistment expired and Espy was mustered out of service. He intended to re-enter the army forthwith, but his left hand became crippled for life by a sorghum mill, and rendered him incapable of further service as a soldier. It was at this period that John Espy returned to Pennsylvania and completed his education. He was graduated from the new Columbus Academy in 1863, from Harvey's Institute in 1864, and from Albany (N. Y.) Law School in 1866. From this last named school he received the degree of Bachelor of Laws. He was admitted to the bar of Luzerne county, Pa., April 20, '68. Upon returning from the law school he at once began taking an active part in politics. Every campaign found him on the stump and participating prominently in conventions as the chairman thereof or as a hard-working delegate. He was, of course, a strong Republican; but, while his father was a supporter of Simon Cameron, the son was equally ardent in his support of the Luzerne anti-Cameron movement. The factional contest oft times led to very interesting situations, in which the subject of this sketch figured conspicuously. He helped others to official positions, but business obligations kept him from holding public office himself. He prospered at law; was for ten years a director of the Wilkes-Barre Water Company and Kingston Passenger Railway, and was interested in banking and promoting many other important enterprises. In 1871 he was commissioned aide-de-camp with the rank of Major, on the staff of Genl. E. S. Osborn of the Pennsylvania National Guard. He served in that capacity ten years, and took an active part in suppressing the riots at Scranton in 1871, at the Susquehanna Depot in 1877, and at Hazleton in 1878. Major Espy came to St. Paul in 1879. Admitted to the Ramsey County bar, he for a time occupied the same office with Hon. Hiram F. Stevens. Soon after coming here he was made secretary of the State Central Committee; this was during the Blaine and Logan campaign, when Minnesota gave the largest Republican majority ever polled in the state, Nelson's excepted. While he still conducts an office practice, his large investments and property holdings occupy most of his time. He has done a great deal for St. Paul. He built and owns the well known Espy block on Fifth street, and has also erected many buildings in other parts of the city and is interested in the beautiful White Bear towns of Mahtomedi and Wildwood—one of the loveliest resorts in the Northwest. He is public spirited and large-hearted. A member of the Episcopal Church; he is also a director of the Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. Always an active G. A. R. man; he was delegate from Minnesota to the twenty-eighth annual encampment at Pittsburg, and worked hard to secure the 1895 encampment for his home city. He was also a member of the local committee that went to Louisville in 1895 and secured the thirtieth national encampment for St. Paul in 1896. During that encampment the major exerted his energies to the utmost. He suggested the "living flag," composed of 2,200 children, and saw that his grand design was carried to a magnificently successful conclusion. Major Espy's whole life bespeaks the man. Respect has followed him all through the years. Here in St. Paul, no man has been held in higher esteem. He and his estimable wife have four children: John B., Lila Wood, Maude M., an artist of great promise, who d. Aug. 12, 1903, and Olin, who was a member of the 13th. Minn. Vol. Inft., in the Spanish American War, and was with his Regiment in the Philippines, and their elegant home at No. 74 Summit Ave., is the center of a large circle of friends and much graceful hospitality. There the Major will doubtless spend the remaining years of his busy and useful life. Although past the half century mark, he is still strong and active and manifests no sign of lessening interest in the development of his chosen field of labor. To a man of his temperament, there can be no period to his career until its final close.

 WM HOPKINSON Clerk

The above copy is made without changing the spelling, or capitalization. I wish the writing could also be reproduced as it is in a fine clerical hand with the letters well connected and indicates erudition and character. The signatures may vary a few letters from the way they are copied as they have grown indistinct with age. The name of the place Tubernmore or Tuburnmore is spelled two ways. The names are bracketed together in the original as here indicated. This letter is owned by Dr. John R. Espy of Trinidad, Colorado. William Espy served in the Revolution, family tradition says, as a scout in the army under Genl. Knox. However, that may be, he certainly carried a sword which is now owned by Hugh Espy of Rising Sun, Ind. Proof of his service is found in Vol. 13, Second Series, page 66, Archives of Pennsylvania, unclassified soldiers, and the name is spelled Espy. For some reason now unknown, this family has made Espy their choice in spelling the name, supposedly to distinguish them from others in the same county. After peace was proclaimed, Wm. Espy settled in Fayette, county, Pa., where he owned a large tract of land about forty miles east of Pittsburg; there he lived and died, in 1813. He m. Fort Madison, Iowa. Dec. 14, 1905.

The New York Public Library:—

Mr. Wilberforce Eames,

My Dear Sir:—

Your note in regard to my book "The Espe Family in America" came today and I am sorry to say I cannot possibly give you a copy.

This book has been very carefully prepared and cost much time and money.

Few copies were printed and the book has not been advertised in any way.

As a family the Espe's are rather wrapped up in themselves and I supposed outsiders would care little for the book and it matters little what others think.
